Adrian is everything Nova has ever wanted in a hero: brave, kind, and handsome. But he's also an Anarchist, and Nova knows that she shouldn't trust him. But as they spend more time together, Nova starts to realize that Adrian is not who she thought he was. He's not a villain. He's just a boy who's trying to do what he thinks is right.

Nova and Adrian's relationship is forbidden, but they can't help but be drawn to each other. They share a deep connection, and they both know that they can't fight their feelings. But their love is dangerous, and it could put both of them at risk.

Nova and Adrian must decide what's more important: their love for each other or their duty to their respective sides. The fate of the world hangs in the balance, and Nova and Adrian must make a choice that will change everything.

Chapter 1

Nova had always been drawn to the Renegades. They were the heroes of Gatlon City, the ones who fought to protect the innocent from the Anarchists. Nova had always dreamed of being a Renegade herself, and when she finally got her chance, she was determined to prove herself worthy.

But Nova's first mission didn't go as planned. She was sent to apprehend a group of Anarchists who were robbing a bank, but the mission went sideways, and Nova was forced to make a difficult decision. She could have saved the hostages, but it would have meant letting the Anarchists escape. Or she could have stopped the Anarchists, but it would have meant sacrificing the hostages.

Nova chose to save the hostages, and the Anarchists got away. She was hailed as a hero by the public, but she couldn't shake the feeling that she had made the wrong choice.

A few weeks later, Nova was patrolling the city when she saw a group of Anarchists attacking a group of civilians. She didn't hesitate to intervene, and she quickly defeated the Anarchists. But as she was apprehending them, one of the Anarchists pulled a gun on her.

Nova was about to be shot when Adrian, an Anarchist, intervened. He disarmed the Anarchist and saved Nova's life.

Nova was shocked. She had never met an Anarchist who would save her life. She didn't know what to think, but she was grateful to Adrian for saving her.

Adrian told Nova that he was different from the other Anarchists. He said that he didn't believe in violence, and he only wanted to help people.

Nova didn't know if she could believe Adrian, but she couldn't deny that she was drawn to him. He was everything she had ever wanted in a hero: brave, kind, and handsome.

But Adrian was also an Anarchist, and Nova knew that she shouldn't trust him. But as they spent more time together, Nova started to realize that Adrian was not who she thought he was. He wasn't a villain. He was just a boy who's trying to do what he thinks is right.

Chapter 2

Nova and Adrian started spending more and more time together. They talked about their lives, their dreams, and their beliefs. Nova started to realize that Adrian was not the monster she had been led to believe. He was just a normal boy, with the same hopes and dreams as everyone else.

But Nova knew that their relationship was forbidden. She was a Renegade, and he was an Anarchist. If their relationship was discovered, they would both be in danger.

But Nova couldn't help but fall in love with Adrian. He was everything she had ever wanted in a man, and she knew that she couldn't live without him.

One day, Nova and Adrian were caught kissing by a group of Renegades. Nova was immediately arrested, and Adrian was taken into custody by the Anarchists.

Nova was charged with treason, and she was sentenced to death. Adrian was charged with aiding and abetting a traitor, and he was also sentenced to death.

Nova and Adrian were both prepared to die, but they refused to give up hope. They knew that they had found something special, and they were determined to fight for their love.
